Gallup Poll Questions Concepts Of Democracy

SEVENTY-TWO PER CENT OF PEOPLE IN FAVOR OF FREE DISCUSSION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 30—The importance of education to the maintenance of free speech and free discussion, vital concepts of democracy, is shown in a recent poll conducted by the American Youth Commission and published by the National Education Association. The poll was undertaken with the cooperation of the American Institute of Public Opinion of which George Gallup is director.

Questioned as to their beliefs on whether youth groups should discuss controversial issues, those citizens who had advanced in education through high school or beyond were found to be far more appreciative of this right of democracy than those who had not had a high school education. Asked the question, Do you think that young people in church groups, social groups, and other youth organizations should discuss such questions (labor unions, war, and government policy) among themselves? College graduates of all ages were found to be emphatically in favor of free discussion of issues, and 85 per cent of the high school graduates interviewed.

As compared to this, however, only 62 per cent of those who had not themselves graduated from high school were found to favor this freedom of discussion on the part of youth groups. The remainder of the non-high school graduates lean toward suppression of speech and discussion or else have no opinion in the matter.

Averaging answers of persons with all degrees of education, 72 per cent of the general sampling of the public interviewed were found to believe in unhampered discussion for youth groups as part of the educational process; 18 per cent indicated that they are opposed; and ten per cent have no opinion in the matter.

The reasons given for their views by those favoring discussion are as follows:

An opportunity for young people to become informed	42 per cent
Broader views developed among young people	11
Such discussion helps young people to think	5
They should be free to discuss what they wish	5

GALLUP ALSO TAKES POLL IMPORTANCE OF EDUCATION

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 30—The training of youth for democratic living and the addition of courses in high schools which prepare young people for an occupation, objectives receiving major emphasis in schools today, are recognized by relatively few citizens outside the teaching profession, according to the results of a recent poll conducted by the American Youth Commission and published by the National Education Association. The poll was undertaken with the cooperation of the American Institute of Public Opinion of which George Gallup is director.

Seventy-three per cent of a sampling of the United States' population, when asked if they believe too much importance is being placed on education these days, indicated that they do not think education is over-emphasized. Although a number of reasons were given for this faith in education, only six per cent mentioned the necessity of education to the country's advance as a democracy and only 22 per cent mentioned the value of education in the attainment of success and in meeting today's complex civilization.

Answers indicated that a little less than three-fourths of the citizens recognize the college preparatory functions of the high school, while a little less than a half of

Mrs. Samuel Leaves

With the deepest of regrets, the student body as well as the teaching and executive staff of the college are bidding good-by this week to Mrs. Mabel Samuels, who leaves Jacksonville to join her husband, Luther Samuels, in making their home in Ohio. For a number of years Mrs. Samuels has occupied the position of secretary to Dr. C. W. Doughtie. During her stay here she has made every possible effort to give of her valuable service to anyone who asked for it, and she has endeared herself to the student body, and especially lonely freshmen, by making them feel at home and by doing her best to secure for them in the dormitories and in the town comfortable lodgings. She will be greatly missed; her cheerful smile to all and her word of greetings to those who needed it most. It is the desire of the girls and boys of the college and their elders to extend to Mrs. Samuels their most sincere wish that she will find her new home the most pleasant of places and to thank her for all that she has meant to Jacksonville.

Her position will be filled by Mrs. John Pitts (Sarah Jordan).

Local Faculty Attend Meet In Anniston

HIGH SCHOOL AFFAIR IS WELL ATTENDED

Mr. E. J. Landers, Mr. Reuben Self, and Dr. C. R. Wood, attended the district meeting of the High School Principals' Association which was held in Anniston, last week. The subject for discussion was Administration and Supervision of Schools, and the two main aspects were: the development of the democratic idea, and a discussion of the core curriculum. Many viewpoints were expanded on teaching democracy in schools. Mr. Landers raised the question as to

Sadie Hawkins Dance Given By Teacola

ANNISTON MERCHANTS
GIVE LOVELY PRIZES TO WINNERS

Sadie Hawkins, the much-talked-of husband-hunter of Dogpatch, Kentucky, made her first appearance on the J. S. T. C. campus, Tuesday night, November 19, at the pre-holidays dance sponsored by The Teacola staff. The occasion was the conclusion of a highly exciting week in which the co-eds of the college followed the example of their patroness and used every known means to seek out and entice the attention of the eligible young men, supplying such inducement as the movies, ice cream, and coca colas. Final conquest took place in the new gymnasium with a background in which Sadie, herself, might have been quite at home. Autumn foliage, corn-stalks, pumpkins, bales of hay, and colorful fall berries and vines transformed the big room into a country setting befitting the theme of the dance. For all those who did not trod the lively measure, a part of the hall was furnished with ping-pong tables, Chinese-checkers, dominos, checkers, and bridge cards. The most outstanding feature of the evening were the costumes depicting the characters of

Winter Quarter Starts Monday

Sophomore Hop Will Be Next Saturday

NATIONAL GUARD TO BE HONORED AT AFFAIR

The annual Sophomore Hop will be given next Saturday evening, December 7, in the physical education building. This dance will mark the end of the fall quarter, or better, the beginning of the winter quarter.

President C. W. Doughtie had planned to give a dance in honor of the local National Guard, Company H, which has mobilized for a year's training. Many of the members of the local corps were students at Jacksonville at the time the mobilization call came. But since the two dances, the Sophomore Hop and the one for the National Guard, would necessarily come very close together, it was decided that the sophomores would invite to their dance the guardsmen, making the latter guests of honor.

A special program has been arranged, and this year's Sophomore Hop is expected to be the best in recent years. The music should be exceptionally good, as the orchestra will be led by G. C. Miller, sophomore class president.

The dance is to be an invitation affair and those students wishing to secure invitations should get them from Constance Mock. If bids are wanted for out-of-town friends, please arrange this with Miss Mock before Wednesday, December 4.

The dance begins at 7:30 p. m. when programs will be filled out with the aid of special hostesses. At 8:00 sharp the music begins. It is urged by the Social Committee that no programs be filled out be-

Faculty Members To Be Added

SECONDARY EDUCATION
STEPS ARE TAKEN

On Monday, December 9, registration will take place for the Winter Quarter. Although the fanfare incident to the Fall opening of school will be absent, registration for the second quarter is just as important, and should be done as carefully by each individual student.

Many who knew Miss Allen when she was Asst. Professor of Physical Education last summer will be delighted to learn that she has been engaged permanently, and will take her place Monday in the secondary division of the High School. The only other addition to the faculty will be Mr. James, who will have a similar capacity in the commercial section of the secondary division.

Steps to be taken during the Winter Quarter will be of great interest to those who are taking secondary education. It is believed that six students will be qualified to take laboratory teaching in the secondary department during the Spring Quarter, and other plans for Juniors in that department will be completed.

Two new courses will be of great interest to many. Dr. Glazner will teach a class in economic geography, while Dr. Cayley will instruct a group in government.

As one of the steps being made to gear the college to the secondary program, Dr. Austin will represent the psychology staff in visits to the High School to acquaint himself with the learning processes as exemplified by adolescent youths.

A large group of entering Freshmen are solving their financial problems in an interesting way. They are working half-time on a

Two persons in three think teachers should discuss in high school class rooms such questions as labor unions, war, and government policy; 23 per cent oppose it; and 10 per cent have no opinion. Nearly one-half of the public believes that teachers are fair to all sides in such discussions; only one in four is skeptical.

Among a number of significant findings, the poll revealed that the American public has a generally favorable point of view toward the present day program of public education. While most people (85 per cent) feel that education has improved the past generation, almost three-fourths of the people feel that education is not given too much emphasis.

A two-and-one-half per cent deviation from actual results in the recent presidential race on the part of surveys conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion serves as an indication of its accuracy as a medium for indicating public opinion.

High School Is Being Improved

The High School building is gradually being improved and renovated. Recently the columns and front of the building received a coat of paint. A Materials bureau has been installed, including a dark room for developing pictures. This is one of three such bureaus in the college, under the direction of Mr. W. O. Barrow and Mrs. Ethel Posey.

In connection with the materials bureau, Visual Educations is being developed under Mr. Barrow's supervision. He attended a conference in Atlanta about two weeks ago to which visual education leaders were invited. Lectures and displays made the meeting both interesting and instructive. Mr. Barrow is making it possible for educational films of all types to be presented to the school, and in order to accomplish this purpose, the auditorium of the high school has been equipped with dark shades so that the room may be darkened quickly and conveniently for showing films. This week films on tuberculosis and home economics were shown.

Changes were made in the library recently which have transformed it from a small, poorly lighted room, to a large, light, comfortable reading room. Two classrooms which formerly served as study hall and library were thrown together by removing the partition. One end of the room was enclosed for the stacks and the remainder of the space is used for tables and

Answers indicated that a little less than three-fourths of the citizens recognize the college preparatory functions of the high school, while a little less than a half of the population recognize that high school programs of education are planned to include the needs of those who will not go beyond high school graduation.

The poll indicated that the majority of citizens, 85 per cent, would answer, "Yes—better," to the question, Do you think young people today are getting a better education in school than their parents got? Little more than one person in 20 thinks education is "about the same"; and a slightly higher proportion think education today is poorer. Two per cent have no opinion.

The 85 per cent who think education has improved gave the following reasons:

Have more schools and better equipment 27 per cent
 Have better trained teachers 17
 Have a variety of subjects and better course material 13
 Children are required to go to school longer 9
 More money is spent on education 2
 Other reasons given 3
 Total 85 %

From the reasons given, it becomes apparent that six in ten adults think that more schools, better equipment, better prepared teachers, and a broader curriculum result in a higher type of education.

Work Started On The Sophomore Program

The sophomore program for next fall is now being worked out by members of the sophomore faculty who are as follows: Mr. Gary, Dr. Glazner, Mr. Ingram, Dr. Felgar, Dr. Allison, Miss Curtiss, Dr. McLean, Miss Huger, Miss Barnes, and Miss Weishaupt.

An attempt is being made to set up the problems, materials, experiences, major ideas involved, standards for every member of the program, and etc. The second year for the sophomores will be largely a continuation of the general education program now going on in the freshmen class. The only difference is that the emphasis next year will be on Man and his Physical Environment, whereas the theme this year is Personal Development.

the district meeting of the High School Principal's Association which was held in Anniston, last week. The subject for discussion was Administration and Supervision of Schools, and the two main aspects were: the development of the democratic idea, and a discussion of the core curriculum. Many viewpoints were expanded on teaching democracy in schools. Mr. Landers raised the question as to whether and to what extent it is proper to indoctrinate students in democratic ideals. He insisted that the working and living of a school pupil should exemplify and practice democratic principles and that democracy could not be taught as a separate class in the traditional sense of a class exercise.

The second part of the discussion was led by Mr. Ernest Stone, graduate of Jacksonville and now principal of the Crossville High School. Mr. Stone discussed the core curriculum in his school and one of the most interesting points was that of the grading of pupils.

The student is now graded according to the rest of the class. Each student's grade is found by comparing the best he can do with what he has done. This system of grading is based on the idea that we should not expect all pupils to make the same progress nor should a pupil be graded according to how his ability or knowledge ranks with that of other members of the group.

Committee Sponsors Etiquette Program

The Student Social Committee, under the direction of its adviser, Mrs. W. J. Calvert, brought to the attention of the student body the mistakes of etiquette made on the campus, in an assembly program for Monday, November 25. The arrangement of the hour was a round-table discussion of questions and answers of what-to-do and how-to-do-it in the field of good manners. Interested students and faculty members supplied the committee with questions, and reliable books on social behavior served as reference material for the desired information.

Ted York, chairman of the Social Committee and representative from the Senior Class, led the discussion and announced the program. Constance Mock, secretary, and members of the Junior Class, read a paper on the value of good manners. Others taking part were Isabel Roper, senior; Mrs. Julia Warren, junior; and Barbara Hodges, sophomore. Gerry Reagan played J. S. T. C. Alma Mater.

The above was heard over WJBY, Gadsden, on the weekly college broadcasting hour on the following afternoon.

corn-stalks, pumpkins, bales of hay, and colorful fall berries and vines transformed the big room into a country setting befitting the theme of the dance. For all those who did not trod the lively measure, a part of the hall was furnished with ping-pong tables, Chinese-checkers, dominos, checkers, and bridge cards. The most outstanding feature of the evening were the costumes depicting the characters of Dogpatch. Freckles, bare feet, outlandish dresses, and pig-tails were the order of the day.

To add to the gaiety of the party, prizes donated by stores in Anniston were given for and won by the following: Elizabeth Pace, Ashland, and John W. White, Anniston, received the prize for the best all-round Sadie Hawkins couple; Mary Elizabeth Williams, Jacksonville, and Herbert Blair, Montgomery, were chosen as the best boy and girl (individual) costumes; J. C. Wheat, of Kennedy, was selected as the cutest Dogpatch "girl"; Barbara Hodges, Gadsden, and Charlie Johnson, Anniston, received the prize for the most original costumes; Neda Phillips, Anniston, was chosen as the "best man-chaser", and Clara LeCroy, of Clanton, was the tackiest.

Those acting as judges included: Miss Maude Luttrell, Miss Harriet Barnes, Mr. Charles Gary, Dr. W. J. Calvert and R. K. Coffee.

Each girl was given an opportunity to exert her charms on whom she pleased under the regulations of a strictly women-break dance. G. C. Miller and his State Collegians supplied music for the occasion. Hours were from 7:00 until 10:30.

Those stores of Anniston donating prizes: Ullman, Berman, Anniston Hardware, Mangel's, The Darling Shop, Russell's Studio and Gift Shop, Wakefield, Hudson's Department, and Scarbrough Drug.

Late Fees Tuesday

No grace will be granted to late registrants for the winter quarter, according to Dean Wood. Classes must be all scheduled, as well as complete arrangements made with the Bursar on Monday, or the late registration fee automatically goes into effect. As this fee is two dollars, it is well worth ones while to take the trouble to register in the proper manner at the proper time. Faculty advisors will be located in various rooms to give direction in case of confusion in schedule making.

The dance begins at 7:30 p. m. when programs will be filled out with the aid of special hostesses. At 8:00 sharp the music begins. It is urged by the Social Committee that no programs be filled out before the dance. This is to accommodate the out-of-towners.

Tuberculosis Test To Be Given Here

A test for tuberculosis will be given soon to all freshmen and probably any other student who wishes to take the test. In accordance with the thorough examination the freshmen are undergoing, they will all be required to take the test.

Dr. Williams from the Alabama Tuberculosis Association gave a very interesting program Friday, November 30, in the assembly room at Bibb Graves Hall. In speaking of the test that will be given, Dr. Williams said that eighty per cent of all adults have positive reaction to the test. This, however, does not mean that one has the disease. It simply means that at one time or another he has had the germ in the body.

Nevertheless, the person whose test shows a positive sign should have an X-Ray picture made. If the picture shows that he has the disease he should immediately go to a sanitarium for treatment. Dr. Williams very emphatically said, "Tuberculosis is curable when given proper medical attention. It should be found in the first stages and given treatment immediately."

No two cases are alike. After one has once had the disease it is easily contracted again. He shows how this is true by a talking picture called "Behind The Shadows." He showed how the disease is treated. He also showed how the disease is contracted. It is most easily contracted by close contact, as in kissing.

Another very interesting picture that was shown was by a negro cast in "Let My People Live." The picture reveals how easily the negro may contact tuberculosis. Due to his unhealthy environment he is more susceptible to the germ than the white man.

"Over 33,000 people per year die from tuberculosis", said Dr. Williams. Often young people who apparently are healthy and strong have tuberculosis. Since the disease definitely is not inherited, one should feel that it is his responsibility to keep himself free of this disease.

As one of the steps being made to gear the college to the secondary program, Dr. Austin will represent the psychology staff in visits to the High School to acquaint himself with the learning processes as exemplified by adolescent youths.

A large group of entering Freshmen are solving their financial problems in an interesting way. They are working half-time on a campus construction job while carrying thirteen hours of college work. The boys work in shifts, one group having morning classes and afternoon work while the other half alternates with them. In this way, by going to summer school, the boys can do three full quarters' work in twelve months. This program is under the direction of Mr. Pence.

Those sophomores who plan to do their Laboratory School teaching during the Winter Quarter will find a completely new system in operation. For them, all work will be located on the old campus. In addition to their nine hours of teaching, they will take Educations 202 and 203, Physical Education 203, Art 213 and Art 203. This arrangement will be much more convenient for them, as they will not have to spend so much of their time between campuses, and also these courses fit directly into the program of the Training School.

Another innovation will be the offering for those with shortages in music and drawing minors, as well as for transfers, of three-hour classes in these subjects. They will meet six times a week for three hours' credit.

Freshmen who are unusually weak in English will be placed in a no-credit English Laboratory course until the deficiencies are corrected. A similar procedure will be taken with those weak in arithmetic.

In all, ten or twelve college professors will spend all or a part of their time in the High School in connection with the secondary program. The new curriculum is by far the most important step taken by Jacksonville since the Normal School was made into a four-year college, and the Winter Quarter will see it swinging into high gear.

Appreciation

The Teacola staff would like to take this opportunity of thanking those stores of Anniston: Ullman, Berman, Scarbrough Drug, Hudson Department, Anniston Hardware, Russel Studio and Gift Shop, Mangels' Darling Shop, and Wakefield, for their kind cooperation that made the Sadie Hawkins Dance possible. Their lovely gifts donated for the occasion were the highlights of the evening.

Farewell To The Guards

This issue of The Teacola should have been dedicated to Company H of the Alabama National Guards, for no other organization is of as much importance this week or this month. Their departure from Jacksonville will be one of great interest to the college as well as to the town, and their absence from the lists of young men residing in the city and the surrounding country will leave a gap which can not easily and quickly be filled.

Most of us do not realize just how much we are going to miss these brave young men until they are gone. We have become so accustomed to seeing their faces in the classrooms and on the streets that it is difficult to understand that for a year, at least, those faces will be employed far away from our daily walks, from the activity that is ours. Their tasks will be those of soldiers preparing to defend their country, their minds will be occupied in marches and military tactics, not proms and English compositions. They are going into a new life entirely different from the world of which we form a part, and yet some of us have not even imagined what we owe to them, what their future might hold for them and us.

Those who haven't planned to expect a vacant place in the chair next to them or a missing smile in the corridor should turn their thoughts to the national guards, to the valor and courage that is theirs. They are willing to sacrifice what might be gained in learning and experience here in college for a military camp. Let us, in the few days that they remain in Jacksonville, show them our real appreciation for what they are doing for these United States of America.

Put Your Studies First

There are many reasons why you should put your studies first. Three of them which we consider most important are: First, you will have a better time in college, for hard work is a necessary background for the enjoyment of things in college or elsewhere. Second, you will stand better with your classmates. Of course there are cheaper roads to distinction, but if followed, their cheapness would soon be found out and instead of distinction there would be disgrace. We know that scholarship alone will not give you the highest standing you would like to have with your classmates; but you will not gain their highest respect without showing that you can do well something that is intellectually difficult. Third, your future career depends upon it. On little class cards, three by five inches, every grade you make is recorded. In the future, when you are looking for some business or professional opening, your record will, to some extent, determine your chances of filling that opening. But that record on the card is not the only record you are making; you are writing in the nerve-cells and films of your brain habits of accuracy, thoroughness, order, power, strength, or their opposites; and twenty, thirty, forty years from now that record will make or mar your success in whatever you undertake.

Make up your minds, then, to take a rank of "A" in some subject at least "B" in pretty nearly everything, and nothing lower than "C" in anything. If you ask why we place such emphasis on these letters,

England

Give as did Prometheus, O England, your flesh and blood
By night; it will come again with day.
Though the pain of endless hells be heaped upon you
All because you chose to befriend
The trampled and the weak,
Drink of this consolation, O England,
And know that the vulture will perish,
That you, our modern Prometheus, will be unbound.

O England, the living sleeping shall awake,
For sleep is a passing thing.
Lads of many hues and sundry tongues
Will come and bear their arms beside
The sons of England and of the Dominions across the seas.
Keep the crusade a living power, a force indispensable,
For the renaissance is already in the making.
Americans, especially, will not forever permit their mother
To hold the heavy scales of justice alone.

Brave the tide, O England, and know that Bombs do kill men, but man shall live through your sacrifice.
The spirit of man can not be bound
By chains so vanishing and frail as a tyrant's power.

England, O England, lover of beauty, mother of the poets and defender of the faith,
Lose your youth and grieve, your loss is great.
But the stream is endless and more will come even as Milton followed Shakespeare.

Temples of art will be rebuilt after the storm has passed.
The will of man, the mind of man is eternal;
To live is an obsession born deep in the breast
Of Adam, and since that birth
The momentum of life has carried us far.
Gathering the priceless gems of freedom, of liberty
And the right to live as men through reason.
Protect mankind, O England, defend our heritage
And immortality is yours and will be
Throughout the ages yet to come.

Make up your minds, then, to take a rank of "A" in some subject at least "B" in pretty nearly everything, and nothing lower than "C" in anything. If you ask why we place such emphasis on these letters, let us tell you what they mean.

"A" means that you have grasped a subject; thought about it; reacted upon it; made it your own; so that you give it out again with the stamp of your individual insight upon it.

"B" means that you have taken it in, and can give it out again in the same form in which it came to you. In details, what you say and write sounds like what the "A" man says and writes; but the words come from the book or the teacher, not from you. No B man can ever make a scholar; he will be a receiver rather than a giver, a creature rather than a creator, to the end of his days.

"C" means same as "B", only that your second-hand information is partial and fragmentary, rather than complete.

"D" means that you have been exposed to a subject often enough and long enough to leave on the plate of your memory a few faint traces, which the charity of the examiner is able to identify. Poor and pitiful as such an exhibition is, a certain number of "D's" are allowed to count toward degree.

"F" means total failure. Too many "F's" may bring a letter to your parents, stating that if the college were to allow you to remain longer, under the impression that you are getting an education, it would be receiving money under false pretenses.

If you will keep these definitions in mind with a view to putting your studies first, the joys of reward, when the reports come out, will then be yours.

The Need of Physical Education

Since the latter part of the nineteenth century, programs of health have been used and broadened from mere programs of fire protection and poor ventilation into programs of more healthful living which include, social, mental, and emotional aspects of health. Several states require health instructions and we believe that not so many years from now it will be required in every state. The aim at the present time is to make good health one of the major outcomes of public education.

In the United States more than a million men and women over twenty years of age die each year. During the World War, reports on the Army draft showed that about one-third of the young men of the United States were unfit for active service.

School health surveys have been made and a record shows that at least sixty per cent of school children are handicapped by physical defects actually detrimental to health. This one incident has helped to awaken the public to the fact that health is the basis upon which all else must be built. Is there any better way to insure and improve health than through physical education? We believe that there is no better way.

Crocodile Tears

The latest instance of the completely biased viewpoint to come to our notice is included in "Facts In Review", a German propaganda organ published in New York City. Purporting to give the "true version" of world events, it is in reality pure propaganda, tempered somewhat in its phraseology by the known instinctive resistance of the American public to unsubstantiated claims. In its latest outburst, a truly saurian rain of tears, the imminence of British interference in Ireland is deplored. The Nazi version:

"Winston Churchill seems determined to invade or annex Ireland. There are many indications that Great Britain is preparing for a violation of Irish neutrality. Such are the ominous reports reaching the Italian press. According to the Giornale d' Italia, numerous M. P.'s have already called upon their government to use force against Eire. Prime Minister Churchill is supposed to have postponed his decision, but only for a short time. England's warlord is thought to be considering a plan to have Ireland occupied by troops from Ulster in order to make the whole affair look like an 'internal matter' affecting only the Irish.

"Ireland has so far observed strict neutrality to the letter and in spirit. Due to its proper attitude it has been able to stay out of the European holocaust into which other small states, pretending to be neutral but cooperating with a belligerent, were drawn one by one. Has the Churchill government decided to cast off its kid gloves and throw overboard its efforts to placate world public opinion against Britain? Are we soon to witness an attempt to 'restore' to the Irish people the benefits of that 'great, free and happy' Empire which they so dearly 'loved' in the past?"

Is it possible that this is one of the opening wedges preparatory to a Nazi lodgement in Eire? Finally seeing an early invasion of Britain as an impossibility, is it inconceivable that the Nazis plan an invasion of Ireland as a strategic move to attack the hard-pressed British from still another angle?

In the past, the German stock excuse for over-running small coun-

EDITORIALS

The TEACOLA was honored recently when one of our editorials "The Poll Tax", was published in The Birmingham News. This particular editorial was written by Thad Barrow. Hats off to you, Thad.

Now that the election is over, and the third-term question is all but forgotten, a big question still remains unsettled on the local campus. What can we argue about now? We practically agree as a student body in our points of view concerning England, Greece, and their enemies. Truly, then, we are in great need of some strong controversial subject to be used for expostulation. Someone has suggested the revised curriculum.

One lad in particular will be sorely missed with the beginning of next quarter. His name happens to be PAUL BROWN. Paul is getting ready to attend Northwestern University, where he will take an advanced course in naval warfare. Both Paul Brown and Bill Tarleton, graduate of the Spring Quarter, will enter Northwestern at the same time. THE TEACOLA salutes you, boys.

Here's a good one. "The Greeks are barbarous", says an Italian news flash, "Because of their healthy attacks upon our troops with bayonets." The Greeks say, "How about the Italian bombing of non-combatants?" The Greeks win, in both and all ways, we say.

If we had a Star of The Week (which we haven't) it would go first to Constance Mock, and if Connie didn't win, then we would nominate Mildred Upshaw. We have our own reasons. Good-by and forty, for a change.

tries has been to "beat the British there." Personally, we cannot censure the British if they violate the militant neutrality of Eire to beat the Nazis at their own game—the latest version of the old badger game.

Arrest of Subversive Consuls Urged

Recently the Greensboro (Ga.) Post of the American Legion adopted resolutions urging the immediate deportation or detention in concentration camps of all foreign consuls known to be engaged in subversive activities.

The resolution, addressed to the national administration in Washington stated that such definite and conclusive action by authorities in this country is necessary so that loss of life and destruction of property may be reduced to a minimum.

This post also inaugurated a drive to have other Legion posts throughout the nation fall in line with the demand for immediate and drastic action against foreign agents and consuls.

The Dies Committee has presented sufficient evidence to prove that many of the German consuls have been engaged in subversive activities, and too many "accidental" explosions and happening in industrial plants manufacturing defense products for such possibilities as sabotage to be overlooked.

It is our opinion that no chances should be taken with the German consuls, nor any who represent unfriendly governments, and that steps should be taken by the administration to take care of this situation. Another problem which faces this country today is that of strikes in the plants where aeroplanes are being manufactured. Only this week a strike was called off after slowing down production which cost this country and Great Britain thirty planes. Something should be done about this also, and it is our guess that it will be done soon.

The resolutions offered by the Greensboro Legion Post were as follows:

"Whereas, a committee, known as the Dies Committee, set up and empowered by the administration has made searching inquiries and is in possession of evidence of sabotage and other activities of foreign consuls and agents working against peace and welfare of the United States, under diplomatic immunity and,

"Whereas, said foreign agents are expending large sums of money to bring about confusion, chaos and the downfall of the United States and,

"Whereas, the United States has witnessed the complete downfall and utter subjugation of no less than 11 democratic nations by such subversive methods and,

"Whereas, the United States is determined at all costs to uphold and maintain the doctrine of individual liberty, freedom of speech and the right to worship God after one's own conscience,

"Be it resolved that this American Legion Post, M. C. Overton, No. 89, beseech our national administration that definite and conclusive action be taken to forestall all such subversive activities of foreign consuls and agents, either by returning the said consuls and agents to their own country or by confining them to prison or concentration camp, so that loss of life and destruction of property may be reduced to a minimum."

A display was made of a wide variety of home-made games. The students had made all kinds of table games from the simplest articles, such as croconos, checkers and numerous others.

At the conclusion of the evening's festivities, the hostesses served punch and cookies.

DINAH SMITH HONORED

Miss Dinah Smith, sophomore at the college, received the highest of honors during the Thanksgiving holidays when the Civitan Club of Pell City selected her to represent the town in the annual Christmas Carnival in Birmingham. The Carnival took place during the holidays, and the program in which Dinah took a part as a princess of the festivities is as follows:

Thursday—

On Thursday afternoon, the Spring Hill-Howard football game was attended by the king and queen of the Carnival and their train. Following the game, the party was royally entertained at a spaghetti dinner at the Hollywood Stables. Thursday night was celebrated by the King's Dance at the Tutwiler Hotel.

Friday—

Friday morning, the Christmas Carnival parade traveled through the streets of the city. The highlights of the procession was the two floats, beautifully decorated with the Christmas symbols, one on which the princesses of the celebration, girls representing a number of towns of Alabama, rode, and the second on which Miss Tennessee, Miss Kentucky, Miss Atlanta, Miss North Carolina, and Miss Arkansas, messengers of good-will, were placed.

The Queen's Ball, one of the best of the dances honoring the court train, was given at the Birmingham Country Club on Friday night.

Saturday—

Saturday afternoon, Dinah witnessed the victory of Alabama's Crimson Tide over Vanderbilt.

That evening, the celebration of the Christmas Carnival was brought to a splendid close at the Coronation Ball in the city auditorium, at which time Dinah and her companions, the princesses, were presented to the king and queen.

Statue of Jefferson Davis Unveiled By U. D. C. At Capitol

MONTGOMERY, Ala., — Two events highlighted the United Daughters of Confederacy convention here last week. They were the unveiling of a statue of Jefferson Davis on the capitol lawn on Tuesday and the surprise visit of "Gone With the Wind" author, Margaret Mitchell to the convention's Thanksgiving night meeting.

A great grandson of the Confederate president, Addison Jefferson Hayes-Davis of Colorado, removed the drape from the giant bronze and stone statue. The ceremony took place only a few yards from the steps of the Alabama statehouse which was the Confederate States' first capitol. At the top of these steps Jefferson Davis took the oath that made him President of the Confederate States of America.

Miss Mitchell appeared suddenly before the astounded Daughters, meeting in business session and accepted a citation that had been prepared secretly for her. The citation was read by Mrs. Charles C. Bolling, Richmond, Virginia, President-General of the organization. It praised Miss Mitchell's novel as a work tending to re-unite the North and South.

At the unveiling of the Jefferson Davis memorial J. Miller Bonner, legal adviser to the Chief Executive, took Governor Dixon's place in the ceremonies. Gov. Dixon was on a business-speaking trip to New York.

A principal speaker at the unveiling was Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va.

Mr. Bonner recalled that four times in history a crowd had gathered at that same spot on the Alabama State Capitol grounds to pay homage to Jefferson Davis: on the great Southerners inauguration as President of the Confederacy; upon his return in 1886, himself to dedicate a Confederate monument; when his body lay in state at the capitol, 1893; and at the dedication of the statue to Mr. Davis.

The statue had been purchased for $20,000. Contributions from UDC members and a $3,000 appropriation by the Alabama Legislature financed procurement of the memorial.

Mrs. Charles Bolling, President-General of the UDC presented the statue to the State of Alabama.

All general officers of the organization were re-elected except one — the Historian-General. Next year's convention will be held in Los Angeles, California.

MISS MITCHELL RECEIVES RECOGNITION FOR UNIT ON "COTTON"

Several years ago, Miss Ethel Mitchell, supervisor in the Laboratory Schools, at the State Teachers College, worked up a unit on "Cotton", which was considered a unique and effective medium for teaching in her grade in the elementary school. Along with the study, she composed songs about cotton, which were representative of the type of songs the colored people of the South sing as they pick the cotton.

Recently she received recognition for her work on this unit from the Alabama Visual Education Project. In a letter from Miss Kathleen Franklin, research director of the project, it was stated that projects, sponsored by the Department of Education were being worked up as Visual Aids for the public schools of the state. All of the aids, the letter said, were supervision of capable teachers or professors in that particular field.

Miss Franklin requested that Miss Mitchell give the technical supervision of her unit on "Cotton". The material for such a unit has been secured from the Avondale Mills in Sylacauga. In exchange for her work, Miss Mitchell is to receive for her room a display of the processes in a small cabinet with a glass top and each process labeled.

Miss Franklin visited the school last week bringing with her the display, which was set up in the Materials Bureau.

The W. R. A. held their regular meeting Thursday, November 28, and volleyball was selected as the team game for this quarter. Work was also done on a system by which the women of the college will be able to belong to the "J" Club. Those meeting the requirements will receive a letter.

The purpose of this organization is to promote student activities as dances, playdays, trips, shows, and team games and individual sports will be sponsored.

Since volleyball has been selected team game the cooperation of all women students is asked for.

Jaxes Win First Cage Game

Final Score Reads 23 to 21

Last Saturday night, Jacksonville College opened its basketball season for 1940-41 with a 23-21 victory over the strong Y. M. C. A. team of Piedmont. The team showed up well considering the fact that only one regular from last year's squad returned; however, they made several mistakes which we can put down to inexperience and their not having yet acquired that "feel" of the ball which comes on later in the season.

Along with last year's regular, "Pop" Gregg, and letterman, "Yank" Friedman and Hoyt Ayers, were uncovered several very promising sophomores. These players are Hulsey, Meharg, Sadler, Bagwell, and Williamon from last year's high-powered frosh quintet, and Prickett, a transfer from Hines Junior College. From among these there is little choice as to who shows most promise, but it is significant that Homer Sadler was the only boy to play the entire game.

Friedman led the locals in scoring with five points, but Gregg, Meharg, and Williamon were close behind with four points each. This division of scoring honors shows that every man on the squad is a dangerous shot and not to be taken too lightly.

The Piedmont squad broke the ice when Hamrick sunk a foul shot, but the Eagle-Owls soon overcame this margin, and at the half they were going away 14 to 8. The second half, however was a different story with the "Y" team's ace forward, Wilson, getting hot and soon drawing his score up close to the Owls. The score at the end of the third quarter was J. S. T. C. 19; Piedmont 17.

At this the Jacksonville boys showed their inexperience by getting rattled and missing some pretty fair shots, but they rallied to put out the Piedmont threat and take the opener 23-21.

J. H. S. Takes Homecoming Day Contest

WINDS UP SEASON WITH 18-0 DEFEAT OF GAYLESVILLE ON LOCAL FIELD WEDNESDAY

The high school baby Owls have finally won a football game. And win they did, with the final score being 18-0 in their favor. The game was played with Gaylesville on the local field before a large homecoming crowd November twentieth. This contest brought an end to the 1940 football season here. The college played its last game on Friday the fifteenth, winning over St. Bernard Junior College in Cullman, 35-7.

The Jacksonville boys outplayed the Gaylesville team in every way, making 11 first downs against 6. The Golden Eagles made their first counter about mid-way of the first quarter when a bad pass from center went over the head of McDonald, and Silver Johnson recovered for the local team on the 10 yard line. Vick Miller picked up 9 yards on the next play and Wilson scored from the 1 yard marker. A pass for extra point was no good. The quarter ended with Jacksonville leading 6 to 0.

The second quarter touchdown was set up by a 30 yard pass from Miller to Wilson that placed the ball on the enemy's 12. On a wide spread formation Miller ran through the middle of the line to score, and again the try for extra point failed.

A long march in the third period was culminated when Vick Miller again scored from the four yard line. Jacksonville came close to making another touchdown in the last quarter; the ball was resting on the Gaylesville two inch line when the game ended.

Coaches Stevenson and Edwards expressed great satisfaction over the "ball played" by their boys, and again Jacksonville has won her homecoming game.

Outstanding for the Golden Eagles were V. Miller, Shipman, Haywood, Sewell, and Rivers. McDonald and Black played well for the losers.

The Nosebag

BY THAD BARROW

Writing a column is no cinch. In the first place, it should be clever; in the second place, it should be original, and in the third place, it should be timely. Our system is more wrong for lack of the first two than of the latter, and far from perfect even in that department. So much for self-criticism.

For today, let's content ourselves with a flagrant violation throughout of the second cardinal principle. After chewing the points off several pencils to the distress of our erstwhile flashing smile, we give up and tune in on the current bull session for some "original" dope; that is, something we can claim as our own by virtue of a ten per cent alteration. No dice. We're censored, y'know.

We gave up too soon. Mr. Charlie Burns, a construction man out at the Fort, tells this one for the truth, and vows he can prove it. Following the death of his first wife, Mr. Charlie's great uncle took a number of his grown sons and hied himself off to the Cherokee Strip in Oklahoma. Then Mr. Charlie's uncle settled down with a Creek squaw and forthwith raised a passel of pale red chillun. Their mother took off to the Happy Hunting Grounds, and Mr. Charlie's uncle took unto himself a dusky Cherokee maiden. Their union was much blessed, and, eventually, the Great Spirit beckoned Mr. Charlie's three great-aunt-by-marriage. The old man's eye was still bright, however, and, following a nominal period of mourning, notwithstanding his four-score years and ten, he finally located the perfect mate. She was a soothing Sioux damsel. When Mr. Charlie was seven or eight, he visited the Indian territory and played with their little half-breeds. His uncle was approaching the century mark at the time, and I refer you to Mr. Charlie.

As further proof of the longevity inherent in his family, Mr. Charlie says that four of his great uncles, brothers, all lived to be over a hundred years old. He says he has documents. See him.

In the same general vein of non-originality, there is the tragic case of the Anniston Cat family. Old Mrs. Cat had three kittens, Pffft, Affsstt-st and fffutt-fut. Pffft got sick, fffutt-st died, and Affsstt-st ran off with an old alley tome-cat. Very sad.

MISS VARONA NEWTON IS HONORED AT PARTY

Miss Varona Newton, Odenville, Ala., whose marriage to Wayne Jones, of Birmingham, will take place Dec. 6, was honored at a miscellaneous shower Friday afternoon, Nov. 29, when Mrs. Evie Ash was hostess at the bride-elect's maternal grandparents in Odenville.

Mrs. J. T. Newton, Jr., bride-elect's mother, and Mrs. John A. Jones, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, assisted the hostess and honoree in receiving the guest.

Autumn flowers decorated the house throughout. Mrs. London C. Jordan, Jr., Nashville, sister of the bride-elect, presided at the punch bowl. Those assisting in the serving were Misses Marie Truitt, Beatrice Payne and Lorene Tucker.

Mrs. J. B. Spradley, of Leeds, registered the guests who called between the hours of 2 and 5 P. M.

The honoree wore a dress of black crepe and a shoulder corsage of gardenias and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Ash, Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Jordan wore shoulder corsages of red rosebuds.

Those coming from a distance for the entertainment were Mrs. John A. Jones, Scottsboro; Mrs. London C. Jordan, Nashville; Mrs. J. D. Newton, and Mrs. Richard Teague, Birmingham, and Mrs. James Hagwood, Mrs. Frank Ash and Mrs. J. B. Spradley, of Leeds.

Ainsley Wells, '39, who for the past two years has been rural circulation manager for The Anniston Star, has resigned his position to enter the United States Navy.

Ainsley also edited a column, "Along Country Lanes," in which he recounted many of the interesting things he learned as he traveled over the county from day to day.

Mrs. Kenneth Garren, a graduate of the college, and a former member of the high school faculty, recently accepted the position as recreation director for Calhoun County, with headquarters in Anniston.

Before assuming her new duties, Mrs. Garren spent several weeks in Montgomery for special training.

PITTS-JORDAN MARRIAGE OF INTEREST

The marriage of Miss Sarah Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jordan, Sr., of Gadsden, is of interest to the faculty, students and a wide circle of friends in this section of the state.

The ceremony was performed in Heflin on Monday night by Judge A. H. Glasgow. Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Love were the only attendants.

Mrs. Pitts received her education in the Ensley schools and graduated from the Jacksonville State Teachers College three years ago. She taught for one year in Talladega before she accepted the position as assistant registrar in the college office. She has also been assistant secretary to Dr. C. W. Daugette. Upon the resignation of Mrs. Mabel Samuels, she entered upon full-time duties in the president's office.

Mr. Pitts was reared in Montgomery and graduated at the University of Alabama. He is manager of radio station WHMA in Anniston.

Mr. and Mrs. Pitts will be at home in the Shelton Apartments.

Houston Cole, '24, a professor in the education department at the University of Alabama, will speak to the federated clubs of Andalusia on December 11, in the celebration of "Alabama Day".

The friends of Norman Tant, '40 who teaches at Whitesburg, Ga., in Carroll County, will be interested to learn that he was the center of a controversy which attracted state-wide attention recently. Mr. Tant made certain observations regarding illiteracy as gleaned from records made in registering men for the draft. He was interviewed by The Atlanta Journal, and The Atlanta Constitution, and articles about these conditions were written. The Carroll County Times also carried a picture of Mr. Tant and a story of his findings.

Miss Oneida Fincher, who teaches at Woodland, spent the week-end with friends here. Miss Fincher finished the two-year course the past year.

Coach Dawson Has Successful Year

Friends of Coach and Mrs. J. H. Dawson here will be interested to learn that he has had a most successful season with the Fairhope High School football team, which he has coached this season, winning six out of eight games played to date.

The Dawsons were here last season and have hosts of friends here who are interested in them.

Below we give an excerpt from a letter written by Mrs. Dawson to Mrs. H. E. Lester:

"Hanes has certainly had a successful football season—has played eight games and won six. He plays his last game next Friday night and hopes to win again. His games so far have been: Flomaton 66-0; Atmore 14-6, (we lost that one); Citronelle 14-0; Milton, Florida 33-13; Foley 22-20, (we lost); Bay Minette 19-0; Jay, Florida 58-0 and Robertsdale 51-0. Not bad, eh! So far, he has made quite a reputation and we hope he can keep it so."

Mr. Bush Going To Join A. N. G.

Mr. Newburn Bush, who for several years has been a popular member of the High School faculty, has enlisted in Company "H", of the Alabama National Guard, and will leave with the company when they go to Fort Blanding, Fla.

He was given the rank of sergeant after he decided that he would enlist rather than wait for his number to be drawn for a year of military service.

Mr. Bush received his master's degree in mathematics at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute in August. He holds a bachelor's degree from the State Teachers College. He has many friends among the students and townspeople, and it is with regret that he is being given up at the school. He expects to return to Jacksonville upon completion of his year's service.

Wesley Foundation Gives Programs

The Wesley Foundation, which meets regularly on Wednesday mornings, ten o'clock, in Room 14, has had a number of interesting and varied programs under the direction of our chairman of program committee, Clyde Lybrand. Among them has been a Thanksgiving program, "The Negro in Religion and Education", a program based on Henry W. Longfellow's works and life, and a miscellaneous program containing the topics "Preaching to The Deaf", the "Christian College Creed", and "No Tip From a Friend."

Among the other activities has been the reception held at the Methodist Church for our new minister, the Reverend Charles Ferrell, the presentation of a special service in the absence of our pastor at the morning service at the Church, and the attendance of our president, Mary Frances Redmond, at the Wesley Foundation's Student Conference at Auburn, where every college in Alabama was represented. Some of the highlights of this conference were: two addresses by Dr. Leroy Loemaker of Emory University; a tea given by Pi Tau Chi for all delegates, a formal banquet, a panel discussion and a tour of the Tuskegee Institute grounds where Dr. Carver spoke to the group.

Private Detective: "I trailed your husband into three night clubs and two bachelor apartments."

Suspicious lady: "Good grief, what was he doing?"

Detective: "Trailing you."

A fig for originality: A news program is on the radio, and comes word that John Barrymore has just received his final divorce decree from number umpteenth, Elaine. Quoth he, "Now I can again resume my search for the perfect mate."

The radio is still on. Thought: If Molle can sell shaving cream in spite of that program, the stuff must have something. Think I'll give it a try.

Luncheon Served At High School

A luncheon was served at the High School recently by the members of Miss Ruth Parkman's home economics class and the Junior 3 class of Mrs. Reuben Self. It was a "trial" luncheon, given to demonstrate the feasibility of establishing a permanent lunch room, with the assistance of supplies from Surplus Commodities.

The menu consisted of vegetable soup, baked ham, baked potato, apple sauce, cole slaw, apple, and hot chocolate. Free tickets were distributed among a group of underprivileged children, and a large number of tickets were sold for ten cents each.

A generous supply of staple groceries are available to the school and Mr. Reuben Self, principal, hopes to interest some person in taking charge of the lunch room and of preparing lunches daily for the underprivileged and for those who can pay. Tuesday, seventy lunches were served, and out of this number enough were sold to pay for the items which had to be purchased in order to make the meal a well balanced one. Mr. Self believes that someone could take the lunch room and by spending about two hours every day in preparation of the food build up a profitable patronage. He pointed out that they were unable to serve all those who came to buy.

Two men had just made their exit from a movie theatre, and evidently it had been a very poor picture by the expression on their faces. One turned to the other and said: "You know it certainly is wonderful how moving pictures have advanced these last few years."

"How so?"

"Well first there were silent pictures, then there were the talkies, and now this one smells."

Mrs. Garren spent several weeks in Montgomery for special training.
